

Intimate Relationship as a Cosmic Work of Art

Laraaji Nandananda 11.30.03 NYC

Laraaji Nandananda, who has been with the Life Spectrums family since 1981, will be presenting his 2-hour workshop, "Sound and Intuitive Imagination" and entertain us throughout the week with music and laughter. A composer-tone therapist-recording artist, Laraaji uses tone, sound vibration, and music as vehicles for entering higher states of feeling and imaginary consciousness.

Each breath, each word, each contact and touch, each thought, each and every gesture consciously offered into the tapestry of love and celebration. Intimate relationships are fields of unlimited creative expression where artistic sensitivity and flowing spontaneity flourish and prosper. The embrace, the kiss, the snuggle, the smile, the giggle, the eye contact, the gifts, the presence, the listening ear, the unnecessary comments left unsaid (forever). The promises left unmade, leaving the moment free from external pressures to perform.

When we have bounced back from the paralyzing spell of each other's beauty and have summoned our creativity for the purpose of fashioning a relationship that is at each turn a drop-dead work of excruciating art and soul bliss, we have inherited the greater commission from our universe, for an ultimate work of art, our love life permeated with sweetest sincerity and mindful interaction.

Beyond the need to be loved is the desire for love to receive expression throughout this entire unified field here and now...the beloved partner is in reality a field, visible and invisible, temporary and eternal, solid flesh and transparent space. The relationship gets deeper and more conscious as we allow our inner meditation to permeate and coordinate our outer creativity so that our love does not miss the intended mark...the mark of Cosmic Art.

Fully alive in our love making, we come away from significant otherness into significant all-ness, freed from that sense of separation that allows for a sense of otherness we radiate, vibrate, pulsate, as a whole field...this moment is that Cosmic work of Art.

To transform or not to transform our present relationships? To settle for what seems like a tolerable flow of acceptable romantic promises or to push the romantic envelope out to fully field reality?...Perchance to breathe the heart of the eternal lover...Perchance to kiss the highest bliss smack dead on the lips.

Each one of us is heir to Celestial Real Estates...and to own this presence where we are is to dismantle our smaller love enterprises...we are no longer satisfied with relationships as a security blanket but now we are awake to our relationships as vehicles of light into more light, as vehicles of loveliness into more loveliness, as vehicles of creative self expression into more self, into more oneness, into more working of the eternal Cosmic Artwork in progress.

Taking a moment, becoming still and identifying all of our relationships...and with each and every one breathing the fragrance of deep celestial, and with each and every one intoning the sound vibration of the one unified field permeating all...then moving upon each one's field persona gifting our intimacy there...loving beyond the mundane, hugging more than skin and bone, kissing more than saliva coated lips, promising more than tomorrow, offering more than the future could ever deliver...and delivering our highest work of Art here and now, today as this Sacred Relationship...AAAHHHH! Love!
